Anne – if you are suggesting that I need to remind the Council of norms, when you filled out the form and proposed to the council that we delete the pledge the council decided that very evening to do so. The protocol set up was the question of whether the council wanted to talk about it at a future study session. It didn't happen that way.

I get that you're the messenger. But also you share and remind us of our norms and rules.

We spent a bit of time outlining a protocol for raising issues with the council. Jake - you can fill out the form just like I did, to introduce this.

I think it's premature to make that announcement. I haven't yet had time to talk to Rachel or Margaret. This feels like a power play - I just got home from work an hour ago and hadn't even seen this email yet.

I thought we had a protocol for introducing topics?

Mayor and Council - as a result of Jake's email question below, four members of the council agreed to revisiting the decision on the pledge at the July 8 study session.

For those of you who have been contacted by the media, local or national, a suggested message back would be:

After hearing many comments from the community, the St. Louis Park City Council is revisiting its decision to remove recitation of the Pledge of Allegiance from city council meetings. The council will discuss this topic at its July 8, 2019, 6:30 p.m. study session. I appreciate your interest in an interview; however in light of this development I will have to decline your request. Thank you.

Just let me know if you prefer staff to handle this for you.

Tom

Colleagues-

Im sure the last 24 hours have been pretty eventful for all of you, as they have been for me.

I understand that I was not at the meeting where this was discussed/decided but I feel strongly that we need to revisit the decision on the pledge of allegiance at our next meeting on July 8th. I don't ask this lightly, in fact I've never asked my colleagues for something like this, but I think this decision deserves another look by all of us.

Please reply to Tom with if you agree that we should revisit this on July 8th.

Thank you,

Jake Spano
