Thanks, Sarah. Would you be able to set up a short interview with me and Mark today? I'm just interested in learning more about what it is the city and AEG are talking about (and who is involved in those talks).

Hi Miguel,

Here's the latest update from Mark Ruff:

The City's first task is to gather staff costs. Police finance staff will need at least two to three weeks to get data from payroll systems and determine hours spent, overtime, etc. The City continues to talk with AEG regularly. City staff have not set a deadline to wrap these conversations up.

Thanks!
Sarah

Hi Casper, Sarah,

Hope you're well. I wanted to check in with the city today for a story about the costs of Trump's rally last week. I'd like to get some more information, now that the rally passed, of how much total services cost, how many police officers were deployed, and exactly what the city and AEG are talking about with regards to payment. Has the city or will city bill the Trump campaign for those services? How will the city and AEG look to recover those costs?

Could you put me in touch with somebody leading this, or provide answers to these questions?

Thank you,

Miguel
